

Photo 1: South-eastern slope of hill. Increased growth of heather in center of picture. Bushes in scrub to right of picture are larger.

Photo 2: Northern edge of hill. Bramble cleared and grassland created. Black knapweed is frequent in the mown green area.

Photo 3: Dogwood scrub in north-western corner of hill.

Photo 4: North-eastern corner of hill. Japanese knotweed has now been replaced by tall herb vegetation, providing a nectar source for insects.

Photo 5: North-eastern corner of hill. Increased growth of tall herbs.

Photo 6: Eastern corner of hill. Little change; continued slight spread of heather.

Photo 7: Eastern corner of hill. Marked spread of broom.

Photo 8: Eastern corner of hill. Good growth of heather, some spread of broom.